Trooper Voelz Drowns; Cramps While Swimming

Visiting Soldier Friends At Camp Courchesne; Body Held For Advices.

Private Frederick H. Voelz, troop M, 11th cavalry, was drowned at about 8:30 a. m. Wednesday night in the Rio Grande at Courchesne bridge, northwest of El Paso. Cramps are said to have been the cause of Voelz's death.

Voelz was swimming with a number of soldier friends, when he went under and failed to reappear. Realizing that something was wrong, his friends telephoned for assistance and, after a short search for the body, brought it to the bank. First aid methods of resuscitation were applied and, on the arrival of city police with a pump, efforts to revive the drowned man were renewed. After several hours' work, however, Maj. J. R. McDonald, of the medical corps, of the 11th cavalry, examined the body and pronounced life extinct.

Voelz was stationed with his regiment at Camp Blythe, and at the time of his death was visiting friends at Camp Courchesne. The body is being held pending instructions from relatives.

More U-Boats Are Sunk In Past Three Months Than Ever During War

London, Eng., July 18.—During the past three months the number of German submarines destroyed has been greater than during any similar period since the beginning of the war. Depth charges have played an important part in ending activities of U-boats.

ANTIPODES BOAT SUNK; HITS A FLOATING MINE

Vancouver, B. C., July 17.—Passengers on a trans-Pacific liner arriving here today brought news of the sinking of the New Zealand coast of the steamship Wimmera, a vessel of 3,000 tons, with the loss of 12 lives. A heavily armed mine in the whaling route between Sydney and Auckland was responsible for the disaster.

The ship carried a large crew and about 150 passengers. Capt. Rolle, the commander, went down with the ship. The survivors had a thrilling experience on the boat. Being in the water 26 hours before reaching shore. A young girl, Gladys Keenan, saved the boat for a part of the time. Most of the passengers, mostly women, were barefooted and in their night attire.

The loss of the Wimmera was the first disaster due to a mine to occur in the antipodes.

SHIP BUILDERS PLANNING BIG TIME FOR LABOR DAY

Washington, D. C., July 18.—American labor has proposed to the shipping board that Labor day this year shall be made a second Fourth of July in launching of a record number of ships in both coasts of America.

Chairman Harby has referred the proposal to Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who will take up the question with unions on the Pacific coast, where the suggestion originated, with a view to making the celebration national if it meets with general approval.

The honor was conferred on Gen. March by King George V. in recognition of his services during the war.

THE WAR AT A GLANCE
(By The Associated Press.)

GEN. FOCH, the allied commander in chief, has taken the offensive on an important scale, attacking this morning on a 25 mile front between the Aisne and the Marne, the western side of the German's Marne salient.

From various sources come reports that the battle is progressing favorably to the allied forces, which probably include American troops.

Few details of the battle are available. The main objective, it is stated, being that at various points along this front progress of from a mile and a half to two miles has been made, and the prisoners have been taken.

The battle line, when the German offensive began, was in the Marne early in June, closely resembling the letter "V" with the right angle toward the sea. Since their attack on Monday morning, the Germans have made progress which has changed the shape of the line to that of the letter "U," the right leg of which is shorter than the left.

From Fontenoy at the tip of the left leg to Reims, on the end of the right leg, about 100 miles. The distance from the Aisne to the present battle front south of the Marne is about 100 miles.

It is along the left leg of the "U" that the allied onslaught began this morning. Behind the allied line is the forest of Villers-Cotterets, with a network of strategic water roads and three railway lines. In front of them there is an important railway line running southward from Compiègne to Chateau Thierry, presumably used by a supply artery for a large army of the enemy troops along the Marne river.

This railway was about four miles from the allied front when the attack was started today. Immediately south of Dormans,

U. S. Guards At Fort Add To Border Force

Battalion 21, Maj. Thompson, Comes From Leon Springs For Duty.

Six hundred men, comprising four companies of the first battalion of the United States guards, commanded by Maj. Henry P. Thompson, arrived in El Paso at midnight Wednesday from Camp Stanley, Leon Springs, where they have been for a period of organization and drill. The battalion is part of the force of 25,000 men authorized by the war department last December, to be known as United States guards, and to be organized as a separate branch of the army.

The battalion was quartered in barracks already prepared for it by Lieut. Col. John A. Wagner, district quartermaster at Leon Springs, and spent Thursday morning making themselves at home and getting their bearings.

While the original plan of the war department was to clothe the guard in the old regulation blue uniforms, it is now decided that the men of the service, the men of the 21st battalion are in khaki, with infantry astorades.

To Guard Big Works.
What the new detachment will be used for in El Paso has not been disclosed. It is said to assume the duties of the pivot guard was stated by Maj. W. J. Rogers, Thursday morning, that the guard will be in the electric light and gas plants, and similar public utilities probably will be turned over to Maj. Thompson's command.

FOUR ARRESTS IN DRAFT CASE OF KOURI AT AUSTIN

Austin, Tex., July 18.—Additional arrests are expected to be made during the day as result of the 11 men held in the case of Adam Kouri, a grand jury of the United States district court, Capt. J. H. Rogers, U. S. marshal, and the other men, who are in the hands of his deputies for execution.

Four arrests have already been made. Adam Kouri, E. J. Kouri, Anton E. Kouri and John W. Hornsby. The first three being residents of Mansfield, Texas, and the fourth, while Hornsby is county attorney of Travis county.

Being joined in one indictment with charging the recruiting and enlistment service "by filing and calling to be filed with the local board of Travis county, and through said board with the attorney general of the state of Texas certain affidavits as to the age of Adam Kouri," these affidavits having been prepared by John W. Hornsby.

The indictment in no place mentions the question of fees, but only charges the obstruction of the draft. Each of the four arrests was allowed bond in the sum of $10,000.

NEAR-MILITARY FUNERAL IS GIVEN MRS. HAZEL CARTER

Douglas, Ark., July 18.—There were military features at the funeral of Mrs. Hazel Carter, a woman who was distinguished through her disguise as a soldier and her journey to the front in the 19th infantry.

She died at Douglas, from which point her remains were sent by the Red Cross to Douglas, her former home, where her grandfather, a Civil war veteran, and a sister resided. Her intention in disguising herself on the troop ship, unknown to the husband, was to facilitate entrance to the front service in France. At her funeral the officiating clergyman was chaplain George Longenecker of the 19th cavalry, while soldiers bore the flag draped coffin.

FRENCH DELIVER A STIFF ATTACK

French Writer Praises the Americans for Their Fine Fighting Mettle.

Americans from semi-official Nord-deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung. The German paper declared: "These American soldiers are cannon fodder. They are incapable of standing up to our seasoned troops. America has been powerless to the strain."

The way the Americans treated a crack German division at Passau, says Col. de Thunhausen, perhaps may give the German writer food for reflection.

In its review of the offensive, the Havas agency notes the agreement in content of the press that after the third day of the battle the situation remains as favorable for the allies as could be expected.

It's a Failure For Germany.
"The German maneuver was frustrated by the insufficiency of the first shock. It can be considered a failure."

"It appears now," says premier Clemenceau's paper, L'Homme Libre, "that the enemy's efforts will not even result in the capture of Reims and still less that of Tonnay. Thus the great offensive will be a failure after their notable failures at Champagne, in Italy and in the Champagne."

To Return Kaiser's Gift In the Shape of Bullets

Washington, D. C., July 18.—Senator S. Stein, of New York city, has sent to the war department a bronze medallion souvenir received from German sources, which he asked to have melted into bullets for American forces.

Stein declared he was a passenger on the first voyage of the steamship Imperator and, as such, received the medallion, which shows a picture of the ship on one side and a likeness of the Kaiser on the other.

"It is my earnest wish," Stein wrote to the war department, "that this piece of metal, which melted into bullets or used in some manner that will rebound on the man whose face is portrayed thereon—the man who is our common enemy."

ITALIANS ATTACK AND MAKE GAINS

Carry Out a Brilliant Counter Movement and Gain Much Ground.

On The French Front in France, July 18.—(By Associated Press.)—While enemy and allied armies generally were mauling time, the Italian last evening carried out a brilliant counter attack near Pucery north of the Marne. They drove the enemy back into the valley of the Arde river. Other sectors north and south of the river Marne saw heavy fighting with constant attacks and counter attacks. Most of these minor operations brought about had prepared for an attack at the same time. Consequently the men met at full tilt midway between the lines. Numerous hand to hand encounters resulted.

The enemy is still trying to make progress toward Rheims by way of Vantou on the north and Genilly and Mont Vernon on the south of the Marne. Monte Vernon changed hands several times, the French eventually gaining some ground.

Nowhere along the front did the Germans obtain an advantage. Heavy fighting with constant attacks and counter attacks have been taking place near Courton wood. East of Reims the day was comparatively quiet but the French recaptured some trenches in the vicinity of Prunay and repulsed attacks between Thionville and Sillery.
